

Bmobile named fastest mobile network

Kent Western, chief executive officer, TSTT

Bmobile has been named Trinidad and Tobago's fastest and best mobile network by Ookla® for Q3 and Q4 2024.

The Ookla Speedtest Awards are based on a rigorous analysis of thousands of consumer-initiated tests performed using the Speedtest® application, bmobile said in a news release yesterday.

Kent Western, CEO of majority state-owned TSTT, which operates the bmobile brand, said, "This is the first time bmobile has been recognised by Ookla, and receiving both the fastest mobile network and best mobile network awards reflects the hard work we've put in over the years," said Western.

He added, “This achievement highlights our commitment to enhancing connectivity across Trinidad and Tobago and proves what our customers already know —when it comes to speed and reliability, bmobile delivers. By continually investing in and expanding our network infrastructure, we empower our customers to stay connected more quickly and reliably than ever before.

“This isn’t just a win for us, it’s a win for every person who relies on us to stay connected, work, and thrive. It’s also a testament to our team’s efforts and our company’s vision to advance connectivity in Trinidad and Tobago.”

The release said bmobile’s success was driven by its customer-first approach and strategic focus on enhancing its network.

The company stated, “Alongside significant investments in expanding its 4G LTE network, bmobile has optimised spectrum efficiency and enhanced its radio capacity across its entire network.

This work has enabled customers to enjoy industry-leading mobile data speeds and have more seamless connectivity experiences.

“In 2025, bmobile will intensify its deployment efforts to further enhance its network and meet the evolving needs of its customers.”
